

Lev M., 28, reserve soldier who was injured in Lebanon on August 6, 2006. Lev stayed in the hospital for three weeks, a shard still remains in the right hip. He suffers from broken ear drums and loss of hearing in the right ear. He also suffers from headaches and dizziness.

Lev repatriated to Israel from St. Petersburg alone when he was 17, graduated from high school, then served in the army. Currently, he is student in hardware electronics at Technion University.

On Oct. 31, 2006 Lev got married. His wife is a student too, she works part time in the library. The family is needy.

---